Leroy Anderson

Concert Music with a Popular Touch Jeffrey Engel, Lecturer

Leroy Anderson (1908–1975) was a master composer of popular orchestral miniatures. Still remembered today are works like “The Syncopated Clock” and “Sleigh Ride.” During the 1950s his compositions were performed by American orchestras more often than any other native composer!

Music Historian Jeffrey Engel will detail his life and play numerous examples of his still beloved music.

Registration is appreciated.

Jeffrey Engel offers historical perspective and depth of musical knowledge in his music appreciation lectures.
